Soldiers Made Demonstration Against The House Of Parliament—Sultan Is Closely Guarded—Merchants Close Their Shops.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Constantinople, April 12.—Serious revolutionary disturbances are reported in many parts of the city and the authorities admit that the situation is most grave. Troops are gathering in different localities and several mobs of discontented are joining with them.

The mutiny of the troops appears to be widespread and the soldiers have made one demonstration already against the building where the Turkish parliament holds its sessions. Their attitude is threatening and becomes more so each hour.

Closing Shops.

Throughout the entire city the business men are closing the shops and many have already left for places of safety. There is much fear that bloodshed will follow and general rioting follow the work of the morning.

Has Been Strained.

The situation has been extremely strained between the young Turks and the liberal parties. It is thought that today's uprising will result in the permanent control of the government by one or the other of these two parties both of whom have been laying plans for some time.

May Coup D'Etat.

In some quarters it is believed that the uprising of the troops has been brought about by the liberals, who hope thus to convince the people of the fallacy set forth by their opponents, the young Turks. It is

It was decided to dynamite some buildings on Stillson street in an effort to control the fire. At 2:30 the indications were that both fires would be checked if the wind didn't shift. The loss will be great.

The Soo has owned the latter road for nearly nine years, and at the same time has acquired $1,000,000 of the common stock of the Wisconsin Central. It also has control of the preferred stock, by an exchange plan under which former holders of Wisconsin Central preferred received new Soo line certificates instead.

Atlanta, Georgia, to Be Scene of Great Gathering—Manitoba Teachers Meet.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Atlanta, Ga., April 12.—An army from the North and an army from the South are passing into Atlanta today, but unlike the two armies that met in this vicinity forty-five years ago, the war that they are waging is a war against ignorance and sloth. These armies, of which the vanguard is already arrived, are composed of the leading educators and philanthropists of the South and North.

They come to attend the four-day conference for Education in the South. This will be the eleventh of these extraordinary annual gatherings, and promises to be one of the most noteworthy educational conferences ever held in this country.

Tomorrow morning there will be a conference of the superintendents of public instruction of the various states of the South. The first session of the conference proper will open at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. This will be merely a business meeting. The real opening of the conference will take place in the evening when Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia and President Robert C. Ogden of New York will be the principal speakers.

Among the accused is the clerk of the board of supervisors, the chairman of the Republican county committee, who is a member of the board of supervisors, and an ex-sheriff of the county. The fourth man under indictment is a furniture dealer, from whom large bills of furniture were bought and of which no trace can be found. The four men are charged with grand larceny and felony. It is said that there yet remains the probability of a large number of indictments to be found when the grand jury reassembles April 20.

Youkin, chairman of the board of the Price system, and other men of prominence are to be heard tomorrow.

BIG FINE MUST BE PAID BY UNCLE IKE FOR LAW VIOLATION

Investigation Committee Says Stephenson Will Have to "Dig Up" for Not Filing Expense Account.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., April 12.—Failure to comply with a Wisconsin law for which a substantial fine may be imposed was revealed against United States Senator Isaac Stephenson last night in the resumption by the senate committee of the investigation of the use of money in the last Wisconsin United States senatorial primary election. The offense of which the record convicts the aged Wisconsin senator and millionaire lumberman is failure to file the statement of his election expenses within the period prescribed by law, thirty days after his election. He was elected by the legislature on March 4 and the stipulated period expired on April 4, nearly ten days ago, yet no statement of election expenses has been filed.

J. C. Mackenzie, filing clerk in the office of Secretary of State Fenn, was the first witness examined by the senate probe committee. He testified that Senator Stephenson had filed no statement in the office of the secretary of state subsequent to the election on March 4. Senator Stephenson filed a statement about February 1, setting forth his expenditures of $11,000 in campaign last summer, but while it is well known that he had large expenses during the continuance of the deadlock on his election by the legislature, he filed no statement as to such expenses.

The senate committee consists of Senators R. M. Marsh of Neillsville, P. A. Hastings of Mayville, and Thomas Morris of La Crosse. They organized last night by the election of Senator Marsh as chairman and provided that the senate committee stenographers should take the testimony. Thus much of the expense of the probe conducted by the joint senate and assembly committee will be avoided.

Owing to the failure of Senator Stephenson to file his election expense account, the committee will endeavor to get him to come to Madison again and testify. Should he come, which is extremely doubtful, he will be asked not only concerning his expenditures during the campaign but also matters developed by the inquiry, among them as to the whereabouts of boxes of campaign documents and correspondence, which one of his campaign clerks, E. J. McMahon, testified were boxed up and shipped to Marinette. Senator Stephenson's home, by the senator's order, immediately upon the close of the primary campaign.

An early witness, perhaps today, will be State Game Warden Stone, who testified to receiving the $1,200 bounty boxes of campaign documents and correspondence, which one of his campaign clerks, E. J. McMahon, testified were boxed up and shipped to Marinette. Senator Stephenson's home, by the senator's order, immediately upon the close of the primary campaign.

START BUSINESS WITH A BIG RUSH

LEGISLATURE CONVENED LAST EVENING AFTER EASTER RECESS.

TO MAKE UP FOR DELAYS.

Bills Passed and Killed by the Evening Session—Are Very Many—Other Talk.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Wis., April 12.—"Karo" and other so-called "Karo" syndicates will have to change their clever names if a bill introduced in the assembly last night becomes a law.

The committee on public health introduced a new bill to compel the definite and clear labeling of syrups. Significant language of the bill is "all brands or labels required shall be an inseparable part of the general or distinguishing label, and the general or distinguishing label shall be the conspicuous sign under which it is sold."

The item bill, relating to compensation of members of the state board of agriculture, was ordered to engrossment after the adoption of an amendment proposed by the committee on claims, making the pay of members for attendance at meetings of the board only their actual expenses, and allowing $5 per day for service of superintendents of departments while serving as such superintendents.

Engrossment was ordered on the Simon Smith bill to empower common councils of cities of the second, third and fourth classes to fill vacancies in the offices of mayor or aldermen, obviating the necessity of holding special elections.

The following bills were indefinitely postponed:

108, A.—(Whitman.) Providing for party nomination by direct vote.

128, A.—(Simon Smith.) Relating to the filling of vacancies in the office of mayor and aldermen in cities of the second, third and fourth class.

184, A.—(Fisher.) Relating to tobacco growers and dealers' associations.

223, A.—(Wellensgard.) Relating to qualified electors voting in places where they are entitled by law to vote.

242, A.—(Wehrwein.) Relating to registration day.

269, A.—(Hannum, by request.) Providing for clerks and their compensation in the office of secretary of state.

369, A.—(Towne.) Relating to the form of official ballots for general election.

482, A.—(Chapple, by request.) Relating to the insurance of children.

505, A.—(Towne, by request.) Relating to "homing" auctioneers.

534, A.—(Nelson, by request.) Relating to advertising and publication of resolutions, ordinances and proceedings of councils.

640, A.—(V. H. Cady.) Relating to the fees of counsel in defense of indigent defendants.

669, A.—(Towers, by request.) Relating to offer of judgment in courts of justice of the peace.

"Protection should be afforded the state in order to prevent fraudulent bounty payments on wild animals, or else state aid should be taken away altogether."

This was the statement of Secretary of State James A. Fenn regarding the bounty bills pending before the legislature. The states surrounding Wisconsin in some cases offer no bounties whatever. In others the bounty payments are in small amounts and small in the aggregate.

Under the form of certification permitted by the present Wisconsin law, bounty payments jumped from $12,699 in 1903 to $30,761 in 1906. As the counties paid a small amount to hunters, these joint payments increased from $10,000 in 1903 to $25,000 in 1906, the data gathered by Secretary Fenn.

Notwithstanding wolf bounties were doubled under the law of 1905, and again increased in 1907, a rigid scrutiny by county clerks into the "scalp" question, reduced bounty claims paid by the state from $30,761 in 1906 to $24,624 in 1908.

"One county alone paid $3,890 for 389 bounties in 1906 and under the law an equal amount was paid by the law," continued Secretary Fenn. "The next county clerk in that county rejected many questionable claims so that only a few old wolves by that county in 1907. The average county clerk and many town clerks have no expert knowledge of wild animals, but under the law they are the judges, who determine what kind of scalps are submitted."

"With hardly an exception the county clerks have added the state, and between 100 and 200 scalps of dogs, foxes and mongrels, received by the office, originally presented for wolf scalps, were so law requires the scalp to be sent to this office, but through the assistance of county clerks and Prof. Wagner of the university, who has gratuitously helped in examinations, many fraudulent claims have been refused payment."

Bill 165-S is now pending in the senate and unless some such protection is given under the law, the door remains open to fraud and mistake.

Bounty payments by the state and the counties from 1903 to 1906 amounted to over a quarter of a million dollars. It has become a growing business and federal authorities claim that where excessive bounties are offered, it becomes more profitable to raise wild than domestic animals.

"There ought to be some law that would protect the state against impostors," declared Mr. Fenn. "Reports from different states, indicate that large bounty payments do not reduce the number of wolves in the amount of bounty payments shown in the aggregate which it pays to wolf hunters."

"Bill 407-S, now before the legislature, proposes to repeal bounty payments by the state, leaving it optional for county boards to offer such bounties. The department is not, unfortunately, (Continued on Page 8.)"

COMPLAINT AGAINST GAS COMPANY FILED

City Attorney Maxfield Filed Document With Rate Commission Yesterday. Contents of Complaint.

The city attorney, H. L. Maxfield, yesterday filed with the Wisconsin railroad rate commission, at Madison, a complaint against the New Gas Light company of this city to have the commission investigate the rates and service of the company. The filing of the complaint was authorized at the last meeting of the common council upon the request of Mr. Maxfield. The text of the document is as follows:

City of Janesville, plaintiff, vs. The New Gas Light Company, defendant.

The petition of the above named City of Janesville respectfully shows:

First: That said city of Janesville is a municipal corporation existing under and by virtue of chapter 221 laws of Wisconsin for 1882, and that on the fifth day of April, 1909, at a regular meeting of the common council of said city said council duly passed the following order, to-wit:

Ordered by the mayor and common council of the city of Janesville, Wisconsin, that the city attorney be and hereby is directed to file a complaint with the railroad rate commission of Wisconsin against the New Gas Light company of the city of Janesville, asking said commission to ascertain and determine the lawful rates, rules and practices of said New Gas Light company, and to determine the quality of gas furnished by said gas company, and for a full and complete investigation of the service to their said patrons.

Fifth: That said meter rates that said gas company compels said city and their consumers to pay, are unjust, unreasonable, excessive and exorbitant.

Sixth: Wherefore said petitioner prays that said New Gas Light company be required, to answer to the charges above set forth and after due hearing and investigation an order be made ascertaining and fixing the lawful rates that said company charges its said consumers, and that said company furnish to said city and its consumers a full and complete investigation and valuation of said company's plant and commanding said company to cease and desist from said violation of the acts referred to in said petition and for such other and further order as the commission may deem just and necessary in the premises.

GOOD-SIZED AMOUNT IS ALREADY RAISED

Salvation Army Has Already Raised Fourteen Hundred Dollars for Erection of Building.

Of the ten thousand dollars which Captain Fleming of the Salvation Army hopes to raise for a building to be used by the organization in this city, fourteen hundred and is expected that this amount will be secured by the first of June. In case this amount is received, the captain contemplates the purchase of a lot on which to build, or to secure some building near the center of the city and remodel it for their purposes. A committee composed of prominent business men and others will be appointed by the captain to handle the funds of the army during this campaign.

The local members of the Salvation Army are now in the midst of their annual week of self-denial. The effort is being made very largely to support the very extensive missionary work of the army, to which we referred some few days since. From Commander Miss Booth, who is at the head of the movement in America, down to the latest recruit, the utmost efforts are being put forth to make it a record week.

"On the principle that 'example is better than precept,'" all the officers and soldiers are expected to deny themselves of anything luxurious or unnecessary, and, in addition, are canvassing the towns and cities of the country in order to obtain additional aid.

Daily printed appeals are being left at most of the houses in the city, while collections are being taken up at the outdoor and indoor services in aid of the fund. Detachments of Salvationists will also be on hand to solicit donations during the day from the many pedestrians who will pass along our thoroughfares; these collectors will be provided with pass-books properly signed by the officer in charge.

It is not generally known that in addition to its social work the army works among the Japs and Chinese in the states, the North American Indians in Canada, the fishermen in Labrador and Norway, the Lapps in Sweden, the Tamils in Natal, the Chinese and Dutch in Java, the Russians in Finland, the French of Paris and Quebec, the Maoris of New Zealand, and the Matibele of Africa. They preach, in fact, in some thirty different languages to more than that number of nations and colonies. Such work as the Salvation Army is doing needs but little recommendation from us. We are certain that the country will not be behind in its practical sympathy with the grand effort now being made.

Rural Postman's Team Creates Considerable Excitement in Streets of Evansville.

Evansville, April 12.—A team belonging to Delbert Jones made a lively run down Main street last Friday morning about seven o'clock. As Mr. Jones, who carries mail on rural route No. 15, was on his way to the post office the bolt came out and let the tongue down, which frightened the horses and they started to run, and just as Mr. Jones was getting them under control they met an automobile, which frightened them still more, and they at once became unmanageable. When they reached the corner of Park and Main streets the buggy struck the curb with such force that the seat with the buggytop and Mr. Jones were thrown into the road. The team ran at a terrific speed down Main street and as they passed the blacksmith shop of E. J. Rockford one of the whiffletrees flew through the large glass in the show window of the carriage department. When in front of Van Wart's drugstore the team ran into a telephone pole and were stopped. The buggy was a total wreck, but Mr. Jones escaped with only slight bruises and was able to make his route as usual.

RELIEF SECURED By Wearing the Arrowsmith Arch Prop

Is not this illustration a decided improvement over the one in our last ad? It is the same foot restored to its natural condition by wearing the Arrowsmith Arch

Prop. This Arrowsmith Arch prop is a small, adjustable appliance to be worn inside of the shoe, so shaped as to conform to the sole of the foot, permitting full freedom for the natural movement in walking. At the same time it bridges the underside of the arch of the foot with a gentle but firm uplift and gives a continuous support from the heel to the ball of the foot, producing a perfect equalization of the distribution of the weight of the body on the foot.

"Adjustability" is the Basis of the Arrowsmith Arch Prop. The Adjustable Fingers and the Bridging Piece are the leading features in this support. They allow it to be raised or lowered to conform to the individual foot condition and so secure comfort without unnecessary pain. By gradually raising the arch from time to time the improvement in the condition of the foot can be followed up and once the bones got back to their normal position the cure will be permanent, as the strain is removed from the muscles and the bone formation and nature gradually repair the damage. The scientific construction is such that the appliances positively stays at any reasonable elevation given it.

This is the original Arrowsmith Arch Prop. Accept no others—they are imitations.

THE SENATE ON TARIFF

In the United States Senate the Payne tariff measure has received some severe jolts. One feature of the Aldrich amendments that pleases the women of the country is again placing stockings and gloves on the same basis as they now hold. The committee yesterday made public its incomplete draft of the measure and as far as it has gone it is an improvement on the house measure.
While it has left untouched its reduced duties on lumber, iron, and steel, it has substituted the present duties on gloves and stockings for those which disfigure the house bill and have shown greater respect for public sentiment and the needs of the consumer than the so-called popular branch of congress. They have seen that the house duties are unjust because prohibitive, and that their enactment would lose the republican party many seats in the next congress.
What the committee will recommend next to coal, hides, and wool pulp is uncertain. They are all on the free list of the house bill, and the senate should agree with the house as to them. Whether it will be another question. The West Virginia senators will fight for a duty on coal. The Maine senators are against free wool pulp. There are some western senators who will stand out for a duty on hides. One can only hope for the best.
The finance committee has not gone far enough with its measure to permit of a conclusion as to its revenue-producing qualities. It will have to do better than the house has done. It struck out the duty on tea, which the ways and means committee estimated would bring in $3,000,000, and the finance committee proposes to strike out duties on spices, which might have brought in a million dollars. That committee may feel compelled to recommend the imposition of additional internal revenue taxes.

COUNTY OPTION

State-makers for the next state campaign for Governor and United States Senator have already arranged their program, which if the gentlemen named as candidates will see fit to carry out, will make the campaign an interesting one to say the least. County Option is to be the war cry and with United States Senator Robert M. La Follette as candidate for re-nomination and election to the senate and State Senator S. M. Marsh, father of the county option bill, seeking the republican nomination for Governor, it will mean that the campaign will be in the hands of the anti-alcohol leaguers. There will be several other candidates for Governor and the anti-dry statesmen will seek to combine on some one man who will be strong enough to defeat Marsh. There is also a prospect that La Follette will have opposition and with the German element of the state against him his path may not be a smooth one for re-nomination. Apparently the state-makers at Madison have it all arranged and find much pleasure in announcing the plans of the anti-alcohol leaguers who feel they will have an issue that will attract voters regardless of any party affiliations.

TAKING THEIR TIME

It is apparent that the saloon-keepers whose licenses are in jeopardy before the council are evidently seeking ing more time. Their plans are clear to those who have followed the case at all. They want permission to sell their property, including the license, which should be forfeited if the council acts, so that while punished mildly by loss of profits from now until July, they will in reality not lose much. This question of the transfer of their license is one of public interest. It means much to the city as a whole. Aside from the legal question of the right to do such a thing there is a question of morality and good government which should cause the citizens generally to rise and protest against such action, even if the council has the legal right to do so. The two places in question are directly affected by the movement even though they have new proprietors. The plea that the breweries will lose by the closing of the bar should have no standing. Really the breweries the country over can regulate the liquor traffic if they care to in such a manner that stops of this kind would be unnecessary. It is a moral question at issue—not a legal one—and it is to be hoped the council will not grant a transfer of the license, but will make an example of the two cases as a warning to others.

There are citizens of Janesville who have become disgusted with the era of lawlessness that exists in the city, all due to the influence of a coterie of men. If radical steps are taken regarding the present system of Sunday drunkenness, of young boys loafing on the streets, using foul language while ladies are passing, is not stopped it would be surprising if men, not city officials, took a hand in the business. One gentleman of prominence is authority for the statement that while he has never posed as a reformer, it is time for some one to begin and that he will be ready to make personal complaint against persons who violate the law regulating saloons and gambling rooms if he need be.

For the sake of peace Castro has been forbidden to return to Venezuela and now he plans to drop down on his native land in an airplane so as to stir up another revolution. Castro evidently feels that some one else will get some of the graft and taxes if he does not jump back to protect his interests.

The Senatorial investigation committee will begin its work today just where the joint investigating committee left off, and they hope to unearth more testimony that will be of use in future campaigns under the name of Reform.

Obeys the law as a slogan has hit the popular accord and it is expected that the new city administration will use up several brooms before all is sweet and clean. A little soap and water would not hurt as well.

President Taft is ready to sign a tariff bill that meets the requirements of the people, but he does not want any half-hearted measures passed by congress that will bear his signature.

New York paid touching tribute to the memory of the police officer who died in far-off Italy where duty had called him. It was a warning, though not through threats, at vengeance on his murderer.

President Roosevelt has placed a Paris newspaperman in the list of undesirable by repudiating an alleged interview in the strongest kind of terms.

Janesville will soon have the question of an interurban franchise to discuss to take their mind off something else.

How about that Home-coming and Fourth of July celebration? Has anything been done about it as yet?

AGAIN IN JOURNALISM

(From the Whitewater Register, April 9th.)
Colonel J. A. Watrous, who has been a resident of Whitewater the past two years, has returned to journalism, his profession between wars. He is the representative of Uncle Sam's Magazine for the district composed of Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota, as well as one of its regular contributors. The magazine is in its fourteenth volume. For some years it has been the Army and Navy Life, the most interesting and most valuable publication of its character in this or any other country. The company, a strong one in all ways, having planned to enter the broadest possible field of magazine journalism, to make their publication in all respects national, and even more, in its character—to make it of interest—deemed it wise to give it a new name—to call it Uncle Sam's Magazine. No better name could have been chosen, for in truth it is our Uncle Sam's Magazine, the friend and advocate of all of his interests and of all of his people. The new departure begins with the May number. One of its new features is in the adoption of a permanent policy of broad, practical, earnest friendship for the National Guard of the country—giving it the same type of friendship and effective advocacy that it has long given to the Army and Navy. It is no longer to be a class publication. No pains or expense are spared to place it in the front rank of American magazines. Colonel Watrous' experience as an editor, writer, soldier in two wars, his travels in this and other countries, his tireless industry, habit of close observation, and his love for the profession, mark him as a suitable member of the large company of men and women who are to make Uncle Sam's Magazine a tower of strength to the friend of the republic's interests, and a prime favorite with other vast multitudes of citizens.

About the Limit of Desire.

How glad the old world must be that the beauty cult keeps alive. Sir Philip Sidney's Stella offered him "service and honor, wonder with delight, fear to offend." Those ought to suit any man when accompanied with pink cheeks and bright eyes.

Curious.

PYPER'S

Now that Planting time has come

Have you considered what you should plant to beautify your grounds? To get the best results in landscape architecture, it requires a liberal use of individual specimens. We know the names, the hardiness and the requirements of every tree, shrub, plant and flower and will place them for you where they will evince their characteristic beauties. For example: Brobenis, Deutzias, Snowberry, Lily of the Valley, Iris, and many others do well in shady places, while Hydrangea, Honey-suckle, Spiraea, Wigollas, Shazey, Daisies, Hardy Pink, Phlox and many others thrive only in sunny spots. Investments in landscape gardening prove permanent when placed by our experienced plantmen. It would be hard to estimate costs in advance, but if you will send us a rough drawing of your premises we will be glad to submit a sketch and plan of improvement with approximate cost, or better still, ask us to come and look over our grounds and let us suggest while there. We have a few choice Easter plants in bloom that we will sell very reasonable.

Good Dentists

Never pull a tooth unless it is beyond saving. Dentistry has advanced as a science to such a point that it is practically painless and it applied in time, in an intelligent manner will do wonders in preserving the teeth.

Everyone's teeth should be examined at least twice a year so that the little cavities can be checked before they get a good headway.

I'll examine your teeth free of charge and estimate for you the cost of having them put in proper shape. I would be glad to examine them and have you compare my prices with those of other dentists.

A Lesson in Grammar.
"Now," said a teacher who was giving a lesson in grammar, "can any one give me a word ending with 'ous'?" meaning "full of," as in "dangerous"—"full of danger"—and "hazardous"—"full of hazard?" There was silence in the class for a moment. Then a boy put up his hand. "Well, John," said the teacher, "what is your word?" "Please, sir," came the reply, "'I'ous'—'full of please!'"

DENOUEMENT OF HAPPY ROMANCE

WILCOX-LEIGHTON NUPTIALS TAKE PLACE THIS EVENING.

WHITE AND GOLD WEDDING

Many Relatives And Friends From A Distance To Witness Ceremony— Couple Sails for Naples, Saturday.

For the younger and older society people and the members of the several social and charitable organizations in which the bride and groom have taken an active interest, as well as the many friends and relatives of these couples, will be a distinct note of sadness in the wedding chimes this evening. But distances are nothing and the world is very small. That, indeed, is the one consolation for the onlookers when Romance is ushered in, and a burst of triumphant music to break up old associations and transfer to a far country the gracefulness and charm and brightness which a community has come to regard as its very own.

Miss Vera Wilcox and Dr. Carlton Leighton of Portland, Maine, will be married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Harris on Starline street at eight o'clock this evening. As the opening strains of the Lohengrin march are played by Kroll's orchestra, Master James and Little Miss Esther Harris will stretch the ribbon barriers which lead to a drawing room elaborately decorated with asparagus fern and tiny yellow roses, and the little Misses Isadore and Emily Luce of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, will scatter flowers before the bride's procession. The bride's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilcox Leighton, will be matron of honor. She will be gowned in yellow messaline and will carry white daisies. White net gowns trimmed with yellow messaline will be worn by the bridesmaids, Misses Grace Valentine and Marjorie Mount, who are to be the bridesmaids, and they will carry yellow daisies. The bride will be garbed in white satin and will carry a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The groom will be attended by his brothers, Hugh C. Leighton and Dr. Adam P. Leighton, Jr. Arthur J. Harris will give the bride away and Rev. Robert C. Denison will read the ceremony. Only relatives and a few of the more intimate friends of the principals will be the witnesses.

Following the ceremony and the serving of an elaborate repast, the couple will take their departure on a train for the East. On Saturday they will be passengers on the White Star liner "Romanic," sailing for Naples, Italy. The early summer will be spent in touring Europe, with the expectation of returning to this country in July, to make their permanent home in Portland.

For the comfort and protection of guests an awning has been stretched from the doorway of the Harris home to the street. The many beautiful gifts displayed in one of the reception rooms and the entire interior has been hung with a tapestry of greens and blossoms.

Among the out-of-town people who will be present are: Mr. and Mrs. Adam P. Leighton of Portland, the parents of the groom, Mrs. Thomas W. Luce of Portsmouth, N. H., Mrs. Tucker of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Elwood Watson of Philadelphia, Mrs. Horace Dyer of St. Louis, Miss Harriet Montgomery of Geneva, Ill., and James A. Gilman of Chicago.

LOVEJOY'S PLAYERS ARE WINNING AGAIN

Businessmen's Basketball Team In Y. M. C. A. Pushing Up Toward Head of Percentage Column.

In a very fast game played at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, Lovejoy's team defeated the H. H. team 7 to 5. The contest was full of spectacular plays and the final outcome was in doubt until within the last few seconds of play. The closeness of guarding was almost responsible for the score on the shooting of baskets was very accurate. S. Lovejoy starred in guarding, while the floor work of Stanley Dunawiddle and Fred Baker was of a very high order. In the second contest between F. C. Grant's five and the players of J. L. Wilcox, the former lost to the latter by the score of 10 to 4. The presence of F. F. Lewis in Wilcox's team again added to the playing strength of that five. Eriksen as usual was expert in goalkhrowing. W. G. Shelly for Grant's players put up a fine game.

KOSHKONONG RESORTERS PETITION FOR A TRAIN

On Sundays Which Will Leave That Point at Janesville and Be.

Through the instrumentality of City Treasurer James P. Harris, petitions from Janesville, Beloit, Watertown, Jefferson, and Ft. Atkinson people have been sent to the C. & N. W. Ry. Co. headquarters for a Sunday railway passenger train which will leave Lake Koshkonong at 8 p. m. during the season beginning in April and ending in October. The railroad authorities are inclined to grant the petition, inasmuch as the Sunday service last year paid them well, but are disposed to have the train leave Fond du Lac several hours earlier than 4:35 so as to connect with No. 704 leaving this point for Chicago. But the resorters say this will not do at all, the twilight hour being quite the finest of the day.

WILLIAM WINKLEY HAS PASSED AWAY

Early Resident of City And One of Oldest Masons of Local Lodge.

At half past six o'clock this morning William Winkley, one of the early residents of the city and next to the oldest member of the local lodge of the Masons, passed away at his home on Milton avenue. Death came after an illness of two weeks and a half and was caused by hardening of the arteries, brought on by Mr. Winkley's advanced age. The deceased was seventy-eight years of age and is very well known and most highly respected in this city. He was born in Moulton, Somerset, Lincolnshire, England, September 15, 1831. His boyhood days were spent there, and in 1851 he came to America, going to Oswego, N. Y. While there he met Miss Susan Hanson, who afterward became his wife. In Oswego he learned his trade, that of harness-making. In 1857 he came west to Wisconsin, this time making his home in Janesville and securing employment in the harness shop of H. S. Woodbury. He worked there until 1857, and then in company with Mr. Kothman, the business of Mr. Woodbury was purchased and the business continued in the old building on the bridge. After Mr. Kothman's death, Mr. Winkley remained in the business until 1888, when he retired from active commercial life. In the same year that Mr. Winkley entered into partnership with Mr. Kothman, he also formed another partnership, the last being more happy and blessed than the business association. This was his marriage to Miss Susan Hanson of Oswego. The event took place in this city in 1857. Eight children were born to the happy couple, three of the boys dying in infancy. Of the rest only four of the daughters now survive him. They are: Mrs. Chas. Barnard of Beloit, Mrs. Fred Koebelin, Mrs. Frank Gosselin, and Mrs. Alva E. Lloyd of this city. He also leaves a widow.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon from his home. Further notice will be given later.

Miner Surprised to Hear Queen Victoria Is Dead.

Los Angeles, Cal., Apr. 12.—After passing ten years prospecting in the deserts of Arizona and New Mexico, Albert Courtney is in Los Angeles learning what has happened since his retirement from civilization.

Courtney is an Englishman, and his first question was:

"An 'ow is the queen?"

He was told, after his question was understood, that not it is King Edward.

"Didn't you know Roosevelt had gone to Africa?" he was asked.

"Roosevelt? Roosevelt? Never heard the name before. And who is 'er?"

After backing into a doorway for protection and staring in terror at an automobile, the miner reverted to the queen.

"And so Queen Victoria is dead? I can hardly believe it," he mourned.

But the victory in South Africa raised his spirits and he gave three cheers.

LABEL CASE KNICKED OUT.

Rockefeller's Charges Against Hearst Editors Fall in Court.

New York, Apr. 12.—The writ of habeas corpus secured in behalf of S. B. Carvalho, Bradford Merrill and Edward H. Clark, officers of the Star Company, publishers of the New York American and Evening Journal, in the action brought against them for criminal libel on complaint of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was upheld by Justice Gorard in the supreme court yesterday and the defendants ordered discharged.

Mr. Rockefeller had complained of the publication in the New York American of December 17, 1908, of an article wrongly accusing him of having originated a pension system to which the employees of a certain breakfast food company in Illinois were alleged to have been subjected.

The distance from Toledo to Bryan is but 56 miles, but Weston lost his way and had an extra walk of 15 miles. He left this morning for Jagonor, Ind.

MILLION-DOLLAR ESTATE IS LEFT TO HIS AGED WIDOW

Eau Claire, Wis., April 12.—The will of the late Peter Truax leaves the whole estate, excepting $10,000 in the control of his widow, Cordella Truax, an aged lady. On her death the estate will be divided among relatives. Each of ten persons, including the relatives, he has given $1,000 in cash. The whole estate is supposed to be worth a million dollars. Among the relatives receiving $1,000 is James Cramer of Daraboo.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

THE OBSTINATE BOY.

If your boy is a determined young chap who wants his own way, congratulate yourself.

Obstinacy is a great asset in the capital stock of manhood.

It is a force, to be sure, that needs proper aim and direction, but it holds a large place in the makeup of the mental powers. It has to do largely with success or failure.

The boy that is hard to manage is the boy with the stuff in him—the stuff that stays.

The power of a horse is tremendous, but it needs to be curbed and directed. Properly harnessed and guided, the horse is powerful.

So of the boy. He also needs curbing and harnessing.

Do not think your boy is a bad boy because he wants his own way. Those who amount to anything always want their own way—and get it.

The way to manage a boy who has a will of his own is to manage him through his reason and his affections, not by force.

Do not try to "break his will."

He will need all his surplus will power later on. When you break his will you break his manhood. You should succeed in convincing him you cannot be sure that he is "conquered." He may be deceiving you. And such deception on his part hurts the boy's character.

Oh, it is no easy work, this undertaking to manage a high strung, forceful, high spirited boy!

But it is worth while.

Mothers usually succeed better in such matters than fathers.

The father may chastise and browbeat the boy. He may get the promise of obedience or sullen acquiescence, which will have no lasting effect.

But—

If the mother knows!

She can appeal to the best that is in her son—his affection for her and his unwillingness. It is the only effective way to control a human spirit.

Utilize the boy's obstinacy. It will make a man of him.

The world is just beginning to appreciate the effective force of the human will. It is the will power that does things. And if the will power is to do things it must have its way. It may be guided and directed, but coerced—NEVER!

Not in the Work for Money.

Gypsy Smith, the evangelist, recently held services in Kansas City. A report that he receives $20,000 a year for preaching the gospel reached him, and he promptly issued a strong denial. "My salary is not one-fourth of $20,000 a year," he said. "It is a most modest salary. People would be surprised if they knew what my salary is. I am not out to make money. I could make a lot more money than I do if I were to make my own plans instead of having them made for me. I have had offers on the lecture platform that would take four or five years of my time in this country alone."

Happy home made desolate through a fatal mistake by one of Chicago's police force.

Joseph Finn, who met death at the hands of detective Alexander Scott through a case of mistaken identity, and his widow, who with the little three-months-old babe, mourns their loss.

Chicago—Joseph Finn, the proud father and happy husband of yesterday, is today sleeping the sleep that knows no waking. His widow, who but a few months ago became his happy bride, today mourns her loss with an anguish no one can realize, and the little babe, who is not old enough to understand what it all means, will never know the loving touch and kind caress of a father's hand.

Alexander Scott, Chicago detective, faces a lifetime in the Joliet penitentiary, and is broken down with grief over his fatal mistake, for it was his honest endeavor to carry out the law that led to the killing of Finn, but he was mistaken in his man. The circumstances of the case are briefly these:

Detective Scott had entered a saloon a few minutes before 10 o'clock to serve a subpoena on the saloon-keeper. He admits having taken a glass or two of beer, but denies most emphatically that he was in the least degree under the influence of liquor. As he came out of the saloon in the dusk he thought he recognized passing on the street one of Chicago's worst crooks, whom the entire force had been seeking for months. He felt absolutely sure of his ground. As the supposed crook and a companion passed, Detective Scott ordered them to halt. The companion did so, but the one whom Mr. Scott thought he recognized as the crook continued on, seeing no reason why he should halt.

at the injunction of this man whom he did not know. This is the report of a bystander. Detective Scott states that when he ordered the two to halt, the supposed criminal showed signs of flight and advanced toward him. Which report is true will be settled in the courts, but the outcome forms one of the saddest annals of crime record in Chicago, for Detective Scott pulled out his revolver and fired point blank, killing almost instantly the man he so firmly believed to be a notorious criminal, but who in reality was Joseph Finn.

Mr. Finn was returning from a hard day's labor to his quiet home in the outskirts. On the steps of that home for many hours the mother and wife, holding the babe lovingly to her breast, peered into the darkness, awaiting the return of the one who was no more. When the truth was at last made known to her she was nearly prostrated.

Detective Scott is now being held for the death of Joseph Finn. The man at present out on bail, and is stricken with grief over his mistake.

Nothing, however, can make up for life of sorrow and helplessness of the widow and misfortune of the son.

Cromwell's Seal.

The seal of Oliver Cromwell, now in the possession of a prominent family in Wales, is a plain, gold-mounted corundum stone five-eighths of an inch in diameter. It dates from 1653 and was used on several of his deeds. The whole of the Lord's prayer in English is engraved upon it.

No, Dog!
Reared in the strict school of "Yes, sir!" and "No, ma'am!" addressed without thought of servility to all elders and betters, I find this a season of rare courtesy and decent civility.
Well do I remember that awesome scene at my father's table when a stout and rebellious little sister, seething with disappointment over some denied dainty, answered "No!" to a well meant proffer of a less desirable dish.
"No, dog? Or No, cat?" my father inquired with ominous calm. "No, dog?" the sturdy lass rocklessly replied.
I quake even now at the thought of the breathless pause which followed, and draw a veil over the painful aftermath.—Appleton's.

A Cruel Trap.
A few days ago a man and his wife living in the Rue de la Grosse Horloge, in Rouen, France, suspecting their domestic dishonesty, laid an abominable trap. In a metal cash box they placed a shallow vessel containing vitriol. They then fixed a spiral spring inside the box and locked it. Next morning the servant, seeing no one about, opened the box with a duplicate key. The lid sprang open and she was cruelly burned by the vitriol. Her employers had her arrested, and in her room the police found over $550 in cash, a superb pair of earrings, a gold watch and chain, and a handsome necklace. The jewelry is supposed to have been stolen from previous employers.

EXCELLENT CONCERT OF MUSICAL SOCIETY

Fine Program at Apollo Club Listened to by Small Audience—Money Kept away by Storm.
Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the meeting of the Apollo Club at Library Hall last evening was not very largely attended, but what was lacking in numbers was more than made up for in enthusiasm. The concert was given by members of the society and was a fine exhibition of the talent of the people who participated last evening. The opening number on the program was a piano solo, well rendered, by Miss Pearl Peters. As a soloist, O. J. Kvada showed remarkable ability and his two numbers were enthusiastically received. The first song, "Love's Solace," by E. E. Van Pool, was especially well liked and called forth an encore which was quite as popular as his first song. Miss Wilma Sovorhill's violin solo was a praiseworthy rendition of the subject, "Benedictus." The program of the evening was given in the following order:

1. Lento Bach
Miss Pearl Peters.
2. a. Believo Me Meyer-Helmund
b. Thou Art Near Me Meyer-Helmund
Mr. O. J. Kvada.

FURTHER DELAYS
IN LIQUOR CASE

COUNCIL TOOK NO ACTION ON
PODEWELL AND WALRATH
CASES LAST NIGHT.

POSTPONED FOR ONE WEEK

Meanwhile Two Saloons Continue to Run—Want to Transfer Their Licenses.

After several weeks of delay the council again laid over for one week
the cases of City Attorney Maxfield and City Clerk Walrath, for cause, the question of the transfer of two licenses being before the council for consideration.

It was the most important business of the session and one in which the citizens generally were most interested. City Attorney Maxfield had formally served notice on the council that these licenses should be revoked, citing the state law and decisions of the supreme court and showing the records of the municipal court where both were convicted of violation of the law and ordinances, pleaded guilty and paid fines.

Failure to secure a quorum delayed
the matter previously, but last evening it was again put over owing to the fact that in the case of Mrs. Walrath the summons to appear before the council to show cause why her license should not be revoked was not served by Constable Dullin and in the Podewell case owing to the fact that his attorney, Charles Pierce, alleged the complaint did not show sufficient grounds for the taking away of his license.

The truth of the matter is that both the defendants want an opportunity to sell their places of business, transfer their licenses, and thus lose nothing by the fact that they will be deprived of their licenses. It was a time-killer only and permits them to continue to operate their bar business for another week longer, thus cutting down the time their licenses will have to expire, making their loss,
if finally revoked, as small as possible.

If this fails, an attempt will be made to have the council grant now licenses to some other party, reducing the scale of the license down to the proportionate part of the yearly sum paid, so that the brewers selling the saloon liquor will not lose their customers. Whether this will be done or not remains to be seen, but in the meantime the case is put over for one week for further consideration.

The session last evening was the last regular meeting of the old council and the eight aldermen who were present were reinforced by the newly named members from the first ward, Charles Evans, who was elected to take the seat of Wilbur Carle, resigned. Mr. Evans's bonds were approved and he was sworn into office.

The license question was the absorbing feature of the evening and Alderman Charles Pierce for Ray Podewell and J. J. Cunningham for Mrs.
Walrath, argued in behalf of their respective clients. Attorney Pierce held that Podewell had violated no license law by running a slot machine paying money in his saloon and had made no pretense at gambling in a room and thought that there was no sufficient grounds for the council refusing to permit him to sell his business and transfer his license to Charles Evans.

Attorney Cunningham showed that the summons for Mrs. Walrath to appear before the council had not been properly served. Constable Dullin serving it upon Mrs. Malone, a daughter of the defendant, owing to the absence of her mother in Chicago. This, he held, was not a proper service and if the Walrath case is to come before the council another summons will have to be served on the defendant in proper manner.

To sustain this point Attorney Cunningham presented an affidavit to the effect of the above statement signed by Mrs. Frances Malone, and Constable Dullin was sworn and testified having served the notice on Mrs. Malone, but stated he reported the matter to the city attorney. It was owing to these two facts that consideration on the questions at hand were put over for one week that City Attorney Maxfield and the other City attorney defendants could be better prepared.
While the application for a transfer of license to build and operate an interurban road through and out of Janesville has received its first and second reading nothing was done in the matter last evening and this will probably be one of the heritages of the old council to the new, for them to decide. One reason for the delay was that President Zigler was unable to meet the council in a conference previous to the meeting last night and it was thought best to defer action for the present.

Another question that was expected to call forth a lively discussion was also neglected last evening and that was the ordinance which would abolish the office of assistant street commissioner. This measure had apparently been aimed directly at Mr.
Smith, who was appointed to the major and had passed the first and second readings so that in ignoring it the council left it for consideration at the adjourned meeting next Monday, or even continued it to the next session of the new council.

The petition of James Doe, to be allowed to erect a temporary sheet iron building on Academy street was referred to the Fire and Water committee, who asked for further time.
A petition signed by Adam Holt and Frank Carver that the latter be given permission to move his candy store from its present location forty-four feet west to the lot owned by Mr. Holt, on West Milwaukee and Academy streets, was also allowed to be laid over until next Monday.

Henry Nelson's request that he be allowed to transfer his saloon license to Julius Brunk was laid on the table and Brunk's bond, which had been filed, was rejected.

The local executive committee of the judges of the I. O. O. F. asked that they might be given permission to use the city hall during the state convention, which will be held in this city, June 1, 2 and 3. The matter was reported favorably by the building committee and approved of by the council.

John Benson and John Dalton, of ficers given special police powers without pay, were appointed by Mayor

S. B. Heddles and their appointment accepted by the city dais.

City Engineer Kerch's report of sidewalk grades on Cornelia street and the report of the assistant street commissioner with regard to walks ordered built in 1906 which were not put down, and of new sidewalks now needed, were favorably considered and the street commissioner was ordered to send out notices to those mentioned in the report.

The estimate made by the street commissioner of the amount due the People's Construction company for extra work on the main sewer over and above what has been paid the company, was recommended and City Clerk Badger was instructed to draw an order for $750 to be paid from the main audit power fund, incurred by the city.

The motion of Ald. H. W. Brown that the street commissioner be directed to clean up all the streets in the third ward and repair Oakland avenue was passed.

The report of John Brown as city marshal was laid on the table.

MODERN WOODMEN TO FIGHT CONSUMPTION

Question of Raising Enough Money to Equip a Tent Cottage To Be Decided Soon.

That the Janesville Modern Woodmen of America, Florence Camp, No.
366, should imitate the example of the Holist Camp and raise the amount necessary to establish a tent cottage in the consumption sanatorium at Colorado Springs, Colorado, is being discussed individually among the members and in all probability will be brought up before the next meeting of the camp for consideration. The cost of such a tent-cottage equipped and set up on the sanatorium grounds will come to only $250.00 and it is expected that this amount can be raised by means of voluntary contributions from the members of the camp.

Great interest is being manifested
by the different branches of the M.
W. A. in the fight against the great white plague which the organization is making. At present the organization has accommodations for over sixty patients on a tract of 1,300 acres of land at the foot of the Rocky Mountains near Colorado Springs.
The tent-cottages and necessary equipment, including export medical equipment, have been furnished through the voluntary contributions of individuals, Woodmen and Woodwomen camps.

Modern Woodmen patients
live all over the land and are now living the outdoor life and winning back their health under the supervision of Medical Superintendent Dr. J. E.
White, whose efforts are aided by the vibrating air of the Rockies. The necessity for providing more accommodations is becoming more and more apparent every day as the waiting list of those who have been examined is growing longer each day in many cases delay will mean death.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

A GOOD many women are auricular ostriches.

The ostrich thinks that when he cannot see anyone no one can hear him.

The ostrich woman thinks that when she cannot hear anyone, no one can hear her.

She considers the rumble of a car or train as all obscuring as the ostrich thinks the sand in which he buries his head. Secure in this delusion she cheerfully discusses her very private affairs while everyone within a radius of ten feet is being forcibly regaled with the story of her marital difficulties or a description of her diseases, or some other subject that should be discussed only in the home
if at all.

Two young girls, milder specimens of this species, sat behind me in the car yesterday. I say "milder" specimens for they did pitch their voices so that they were indistinguishable when the car was at full speed, but they entirely failed to allow for lulls.

Every time the car slowed down my ears were sa-tiated with some extremely interesting bit of information.

One of the girls was telling the other of some very startling indiscretion—o say the least—that she had committed. "My dear, I wouldn't have told these things to anyone else on earth, but I know they are safe with you," I heard her say in the last lull. And I longed to tell this wary person that she had told a large part of her secrets to about a dozen people.

I shall never forget a lovers' quarrel at which I assisted in this way.
The couple sat in the seat in front of me on the train. The man was the ostrich on this occasion, for the woman's remarks were effectively muffled in tears. The lady's age seemed to be the subject of the discussion for the strident assertion, "You ain't no spring chicken," rang through the car at frequent intervals.

When they got off the train still wrangling, everyone within ten seats of them was smiling.

An extreme example of ostrichism is the famous case of the woman who found herself announcing in a plausible passage of the concert: "We try ours in lard."

That and the other instances that I have cited were rather amusing than serious; but great harm may result from this habit of careless public discussion of private matters.

Important state secrets have been known to leak in this way and homes have been broken up by gossip thus started.

POSTMASTER'S PLEA
GOES UNRECOGNIZED

State and Railroad Officials Forget to Remedy Transportation
Difficulty.

FOOTVILLE, April 12.—Some weeks have passed since Postmaster Snyder presented a petition to the authorities at Madison asking better passenger and mail train service for Foot-ville, and although at that time he was assured by both the rate commission and officials of the railroad that something would be done in the way of improvement in the near future, we are still handicapped in matters of transportation. Would-be shoppers in Janesville are compelled to drive overland or, if they go by train, must make the return trip via Evansville from which point a freight train may not get them back to Foot-ville on the same day of the month.
So far as mail service is concerned we "would be far better off if we were served by rural routes from Janesville.

Rev. J. H. Bullock is winning a unique reputation for himself as a soloist in popular entertainments. His number on the program given in connec-

Christian church was the funny hit of the evening.

Large audiences enjoyed the Easter programs at the Christian and Methodist church on Sunday night.
The latter was out of the ordinary and showed unusual care in preparation.

Announcement has been made of a series of popular addresses by Rev.
John Lutz the first of which will be given next Sunday night.

Rare presence of mind saved Geo.
Rice and his auto from collision with a freight train at the blind crossing near the "Willow" farm on Tuesday of last week. A severe jolt in the ditch was the fortunate outcome.

Miss Orpha Lee principal of the Hanover school was an over Sunday
guest of Footville friends.

ARRANGES LABOR CONFERENCE.

Taft, at Campers' Request, Will Receive Leaders Friday.

Washington, Apr. 12.—Samuel Com-pers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has arranged for an important labor conference at the White House next Friday afternoon when matters affecting the interests of organized labor will be discussed between President Taft and the members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, which began its session yesterday.

The matters which will be considered at this conference were informally discussed at yesterday's meeting.
In the absence of Vice-Presidents Duncan, Alpine, Morris, Hayes and Ballentine, who are expected to-morrow, the consideration of the reports of President Compers and Secretary Morrison was deferred until that time.

UNIQUE CLUB'S BALL
WAS GREAT SUCCESS

One Hundred And Fifty Couples Participated in Festivities at Assem-

Assembly hall, elaborately decorated with festoons of greens and palms and potted plants, was the scene of the eleventh annual ball of the Unique club last evening. One hundred and fifty couples were in attendance and Kneff & Hatch's orchestra, assisted by George Gray, violinist, and Antonio Musolino, piano player, discoursed a program of inspiring waltzes and marches. The festivities began about eight o'clock and it was an hour after midnight when the "Home, Sweet Home" was played and the dancers regretfully took their departure. The committee of arrangements was composed of Charles Strickler, Richard McKune, Andrew Hagen, Ernest Cle-

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as with-out fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION
Maketh Weak Women Strong,
Sick Women Well.

Mr. Pratt, Philander Phinney, he's chairman of the Eastwick selectmen and pretty high half as big as he thinks he is; he stood on tiptoe on the judge's stand and belted that the greased pig contest was open to boys under 15, and that the one that caught the pig and hung on to it would get five dollars. In less than three shakes of a herring's hind leg there was boys enough on that field to start a reform school. They ranged all the way from little chaps who ought to have been home cutting their milk teeth to "boys" that had yellow fuzz on their chins and a plug of chewing tobacco in their pants' pocket. They fetched in the pig shut up in a box with laths over the top. He was little and black and all shinning with grease. Then they stretched a rope across one end of the race field and lined up the pig-chasers behind it.

"Hello!" says Hartley, "there's our Portland cement youngster. I'll never run with that marble quarry inside of him."

Sure enough, there was the boy that had tackled the candy. I could see his red head blazing like a lightning bolt alongside of a six-foot infant with overalls and a promising crop of side whiskers. Next thing I knew the starter—Isaacchar Tiddit, "twas—the opens the lid to the pig box and hollers "Go!"

The lino dropped. That little lone pig see 20 odd pair of hands shooting towards him, and he fetched a yell like a turbot whistle and put down the field, with the whole crew behind him. The crowd got on tiptoe and stretched their necks to see. Everybody hollered and hurrahed and "haw, hawed."

Now I've been calling the place where they had the races and so on a field. Well, twas't really a field, but just part of the course where they had trotting matches on cattle show days. There was a fence on each side of it and across the ends of the section they was using there was ropes stretched. Back of the fences was the crowd on foot, and back of the ropes was more of 'em, but behind these ropes likewise was lots of horses and wagons and carryalls and such. Every wagon was piled full of people, and amongst 'em I could see the Harry, coach, with the four gray steppers prancing up and down in front of it and old Commodore Barry and his son on the front seat, with the women folks behind.

Well, when that pig started he made a straight course for the lower end of the field, but the sight of the horses and all scared him, I guess, and he hopped and back he come again. Half a dozen of the pig-chasers—them that was nearest to him when he come about—ran into each other and piled up in a heap, squirming like an eel-pot. They got up in a jiffy and started over again, meeting the gang that was coming back on the second lap.

By the time that pig had made three laps round that course he was a candidate for the hos's lunatic asylum. Twice he'd been grabbed, once by the ears and once by a leg, but his liveliness and the grease had got him clear. About half the boys had given up the job, and was making for harbor behind the fence; covered with sand and grease, they was, and red and ashamed. The crowd was pretty high as crazy as the pig, only with joy. Even Hartley was laughing out loud—first time I'd ever heard him.

That little chap with the red hair had been right up with the mourners till the third round; then he was stood on his head in the scuffle and left behind down by the ropes in front of where the Barrys was. The rest of the chasers were scattered around the other end of the field, with the pig doing the grand right and left in and out amongst their legs. One of the boys—that big, lanky one whose cheeks needed mowing—made a flyup.

My whole system seemed to be filled with uric poison. I ached all over and felt miserable. I had but little strength or energy and my kidneys did not act in their natural way. I decided to try a tonic for my kidneys and having often heard of Don's Kidney Pills I procured them from the People's Drug Co. Jump and dove head first right on top of the critter's shiny black back. In a shake he was the underpinning, so to speak, of a sort of monument of boys, all fighting like dogs over a woodchuck.

Next thing I knew the pig shot out from underneath the pile same as if he'd been fired out of a cannon. He was squealing when he begun to fly and squealing when he lit, but his running tackle hadn't been hurt any. Down the field he went and the only one of the chasers in front of him was that little red head. He makes a grab, misses, and the pig keeps straight on, right into the crowd of men and horses and carriages.

"Look out!" yells everybody. "Let him go!" But that little shaver wa'n't built that way. Under the ropes he dives, right where the jam of wheels and hoofs was thickest. The Harry, coach horses rared up and jumped, and backed. You could hear wheels grinding and men yelling and women screaming.

I was one of the first over that fence, but, quick as I was, that Hartley invalid was quicker. As a general thing he moved like 'twas hardly worth while to drag one foot after the other; but now he flew. I could see his big shoulders shoving folks over like they was ninepins. Under the ropes he went and in where the tangle was the worst. And then it closed up into a screeching, kicking whirlpool like. Down he went and I lost sight of him.

Everybody on the grounds was crazy, but I callate I was the worst. I didn't know the lot. Somehow I felt responsible. "Twas mo that told about the Fourth of July doing first and got him over there. 'Twas me that coaxed him into staying for the con-narned pig business. And I kind of felt that I was his guardian, as you might say, now that Van Brunt wa'n't along. Yes, and by ginger, I liked him! Course I thought of the poor little boy, too, but I'm free to say 'twas Hartley that I thought of most."

For the doling of the next two or three minutes you'll have to ask somebody else. All I remember real well is catching hold of Isaacchar Tiddit's Sunday cutaway and ripping it from main truck to 'keelson. You see, Isaacchar was trying to back out of the tangle and I was diving in. Next thing I'm sure of is hanging onto the bridle of one of the Harry horses and playing snap the whip with my feet, up and down and over and under.

She cleared up some finally and there was a ring of folks jamming and pushing and swabbing between wheels and under wagon bodies, and in the middle of the ring was Hartley, kneeling on the ground and looking pretty middling white and sick, with a dripping cut over his eye, and with that little shaver's red head in his lap. And old Doc Huley was there, but how or when he come I don't know. Yes, me and the pig, was there, too, but the critter was out of commission, being dead, and I was too busy to think where I was.

"How is he, doctor?" asked Hartley, anxious. "The Doc didn't answer for a minute or so; he was bending over the boy, sponging and swabbing like all possessed. Poor little chap; he looked white and pitiful enough, stretched out there amongst that crowd of strangers and not a soul of his own folks around to look out for him. And he was such a gritty little mite. I looked at him; chalk white he was, and still, with his eyes shut and his breath coming kind of short and jerky. And—well, my breath got jerky, too. "How is he?" says Hartley again.

Just as he said it the boy sits and begins to breathe more regular. The doctor seemed to feel better. "He'll come round all right now," says the Doc. "Twas the kick that knocked him out. The pig got the worst of it and that saved him. There are no bones broken. But he'd have been trampled to death afterwards if it hadn't been for you, sir. Better let me fix up that cut."

But the Twin shook his head kind of impatient. "Tend to the boy," he says. So the doctor went on with his sponging and swabbing and pretty soon the youngster opens his eyes. "What's that?" asked the Doc, stooping over. "Did I get the pig? Is the fiver comin' to me?"

Well, you'd ought to have heard the crowd laugh. Somebody sings out, "Three cheers for the kid," and they give 'em with a whoop. "What's the matter with youse?" says the youngster, setting up and looking around, dizzy like. "Aw, cut it out!" he says; when they begun to holler some more. "Did I get the pig?"

"You bet you did," says the doctor, laughing. "You're a spunky little rooster. Whose boy are you, anyway? Belong in Eastwick?" "Naw," says the little fellow, like he was plumb disgusted. "N.York." Hartley smiled. "A brother out-cast," says he, looking up at me. Major Phinney had been shoving through the crowd, and now he was in the front rank, where, so they tell me, he used to be in war time—after the lightning was over.

"He's one of them Fresh Air boys," says the major, puffing, but pompous. "There's a summer school of 'em been started just outside the town here. Couple of New York women brought the tribe down last week. This one's one."

Little red head turned to Hartley. "Say," he says, "don't you tell her?" "Tell who?" says Martin. "The teacher. Miss Agony."

"Miss which?" "And just then here comes Isaacchar, his cutaway hanging graceful and ornamental from the collar and piloting a mighty pretty and stylish young woman to the front. She breaks loose from him and runs forward and flops down on her knees.

"Why, Dennis! Why, Dennis!" she says. "How could you run away and behave like this? Are you hurt? Is he—"

She looks up at Hartley as she begins to ask the last question. And he was staring at her as white as a sheet of paper.

"Why, Agony!" he says. And she went white, too, and then red. "Oh!" says she. And then "Oh!" again. "Oh, Martin!"

VICE-PRESIDENT LAUDS POWERS OF AMERICA

Elements of Strength Possessed by United States Recounted by Sherman in Speech.

Utica, N. Y., Apr. 13.—Vice-President James B. Sherman, delivered a stirring address in this, his home city, last night at the chamber of commerce banquet on the subject, "Our Country."

In responding to the toast, "Our Country," Mr. Sherman recounted the elements of strength possessed by the United States, both in its actual material development, its possibilities for greater development, and the moral force it is enabled to exert over the destinies of the world. Recounting the wars in which the country had been involved, every one of which, he declared, had behind it some exalted moral purpose, he said the nation had been devoting itself pretty assiduously to its commercial advancement.

"We have but five per cent. of the population of the earth," said Mr. Sherman. "Our nation possesses but seven per cent. of the area of the earth, and yet industrially we about equal one-half of the balance of mankind."

Representative Cushman of Washington spoke on "A Layman's Picture of the Panama canal," describing the enterprise as one that touches the nation's prosperity and makes for its prestige. He sought to dispel certain ideas which have been advanced as to the scope and plan of the canal.

The advantages of postal savings banks were told by Senator Carter in a most attractive manner.

SCIONS AT JEFFERSON'S TOMB.

Impressive Ceremonies Mark the Visit to Monticello.

Charlottesville, Va., Apr. 13.—The Descendants of the Signers, who held their quarterly meeting yesterday in Washington, came down to Virginia today and celebrated the 176th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson by a pilgrimage to the home and tomb of the patriot at Monticello. The visitors were welcomed here by President A. E. Alderman and the faculty of the University of Virginia, and took part in the usual founders' day exercises, after which luncheon was served at the university commons.

In the afternoon the "pilgrimage" started from the campus, escorted by a committee of the faculty and students and Albemarle chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The trip of three miles was made in carriages. At the tomb there was an impressive program, including addresses by the mayor of Charlottesville, the regent of Albemarle chapter and President Mathewson of the Descendants, vocal music, the reading of an original ode and the strewing of flowers on the tomb. The pilgrims then visited the old Jefferson home, where they were received by Jefferson Levy of New York, the present owner of Monticello.

Advertising may plead more eloquently for goods than the goods can speak for themselves, yet in a legitimate way, there is a curious incident that illustrates the point. It happened to a man who is, himself, in the advertising business, and for the accuracy of it we will vouch:

Why He Bought This man read an advertisement exploiting a certain factory in a current paper. The article appeared so interesting that the man went to a newsstand and bought the paper. To his surprise and amusement he found that he had previously bought the same paper, run through it, and passed by the special article in question, without its having attracted him enough to read it. Yet, upon reading it, proved to be what the advertisement claimed.

The deduction seems to be not enough for a commercial product to be good; its goodness must be pointed out by whatever parties are interested. A virtue that is not advertised has to be its own reward.

Virtue that is advertised is, as the Greeks used to say, "unconquerable in strife."

The circulation of THE DAILY GAZETTE is sufficient to reach most everybody interested.

Showery.
